

Invitation to GEPO Colloquium (European workers' pastoral group)
Videoconference 4-5 February 2021

The world of work faces the challenges of climate change:
an issue for society to discuss in a changing environment

Subsidised by the European Commission with the collaboration and support of the EZA
(European Centre for Workers' Questions)

15 December 2020.

Dear friend,

Given how complex the Covid-19 pandemic has become, the GEPO has decided to hold our 2020 colloquium which was due to take place initially in Brussels in September in videoconference mode on 4-5 February 2021.

The colloquium is entitled, [The world of work faces the challenges of climate change: an issue for society to discuss in a changing environment].

We hope to see you there and be able to continue working with you to see things more widely, consider them more deeply and so strengthen our actions.

We look forward to receiving your registration by 8 January 2021 at the latest.

Best regards.

For the GEPO's Executive: Pontien Kabongo.

Invitation to GEPO Colloquium (European workers' pastoral group)
Videoconference 4-5 February 2021

USEFUL DETAILS

- The Colloquium will be held by videoconference; the GEPO's organisation team will meet with the translators in Luxembourg for the occasion. You will be sent the conference link details once you register.
- Colloquium costs: there are no registration fees this year; but we would ask you to register in good time so we can organise translation to best effect.
- There will be four working languages: German, English, French and Portuguese.
- Given our colloquium format, there are no limits on how many people can take part: so we invite you to pass the invitation to the colloquium on to anyone who is interested in your networks.
- You can call Claude Holper on +352 661 223 361 or Pontien Kabongo on +32 495 64 09 86
